Top of It Too High to Be Shut Out of View by the Pinkertons -- Will J. J. McCafferty Be Reinstated?-Dave Johnson and Bookmakers Lose Heavily on the Day

The Pinkertons at Jamaica track yesterday were up in arms over the appearance of lofty steel tower in course of construction in a lot behind the lower end of the backstretch which, it was generally supposed, was the work of the poolroom men. A similar tower was erected on private property outside of the limits of Belmont Park, but it was par-tially destroyed one night, either by the high track detectives declaring that they knew nothing of the matter one way or another The tower at Jamaica was not entirely finished yesterday, but several men were busy on i all the afternoon. From the top of it, about seventy feet above the ground, it is possible obtain an excellent view of all the race including the finish, while confederates in side of the track can, by the use of signals, make known the betting, starters, jockeys and other details to be wired to the city rooms. In order to shut off the view the Pinkertons stretched several canvas screens on tall effective. In fact, it was said that the tower would be built up to such a height that it would be impossible to keep the desired in formation from the men who intend to see the races from the summit, aided by powerful telescopes. In spite of the existence of the lent among both Pinkertons and racetrack officials last night that the structure was merely a huge bluff to throw the sleuths of another scent. It was said that the rooms were getting information from another source altogether and that they would continue to do so, tower or no tower. According to the statements of various men in close touch with the roomkeepers there has been no trouble about securing details, even though the Pin-kertons have exercised unusual vigilance all the season.

Friends of John J. McCafferty who want to have him reinstated by the Pacific Coast Jockey Club said vesterday that he has in his possession a letter from the man who purchased The Huguenot from him setting forth the fact that the old horse, who died recently won a number of good races without the use of stimulants in any form. McCafferty makes the unqualified assertion, by the way, that after The Huguenot was bought out of a selling race from him at Ascot Park last winter a job was fixed up to show traces of dope with the idea of incriminating him Horsemen who are familiar with the feud between McCafferty and Boots Durnell, which finally resulted in both men being ruled off the turf, declare that in view of the recent reinstatement of Durnell the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, in justice to McCafferty, should lift the ban forthwith. Horsemen intend to go to California for the winter campaign in large numbers. Boots Durnell, S. C. Hildreth, Walter Jennings, H. T. Griffin, Frank Reagan, Barney Schreiber, J. L. Holland, J. M. Johnson and others have made arrangements already. Schreiber will have about eighty horses on the Coast, dividing them up between Los Angeles and Oakland. Jockeys Miller, Radtke, L. Williams, Knapp, Dugan, Schade, Heatherton, J. Jones, Hildebrand and Brussel will ride there. Knapp has signed with Hildreth, Miller is under contract to Tom Williams. L. Williams will ride again for Jennings, and Heatherton, a promising apprentice, will be taken West by Regan. The winter season will open at New Orleans this year on November 24, the Saturday before Thanksgiving Day. Secretary Nathanson of the Western Jockey Club and Judge Hamilton of Los Angeles were at Jamaica yesterday.

In regard to a proposed match race be-tween Roseben and Lady Amelia at Jamaica Jack Joyner said yesterday that he would consent to a meeting between the two sprinters providing the distance could be limited to five furlongs, but at that he declared he was not overanxious for a match because of the uncertain weather and track conditions. This probably means that there will be no match but that Roseben will be retired for the In spite of the success of four favorites and two other horses that were well played, Dave Johnson lost heavily on the day. It was said that he dropped nearly $20,000 trying to beat the first choices. The books got a solid jarring all the afternoon. They cleaned up a profit on the first race through the defeat of Fantastic, who was loaded down with big wagers and was backed off the slates at the final moment. But Baringo was heavily backed, place and show, while the Miller-ites took Sally Preston across the boards. Katriona, who ran in John A. Drake's colors, was well supplied and so were Arlington and Royal Onyx. The latter had a lot of early speed but died away to nothing in the For some reason the big bettors did not fancy John Lyle, the logical choice in the second race, his price receding from even money to 13 to 10. The wise money was placed on E. R. Thomas's Onatas, backed from 4 down to 16 to 5, while there was a strong play on Optician at 5 and Sonoms Belle to show. The books broke about even on this event, the public winning good money on the fayorite. Doc Cassidy had a wager three ways on Merlingo, who ran third his colors. J. M. Cooper, in whose wife's name Sir Caruthers ran in this event, claimed Optician from the Oneck Stable for $1,370. Several clubhouse operators, who, for some reason, do not care to back Radtke's mounts, declined to bet on Sewell in the third race, but there was a steady stream of gold on this good two-year-old, who was a hot even money favorite just the same. Sewell gave fourteen pounds by the scale to Prince Hamburg, twenty-six to Monet and ninete en to Gambrinus, beating them in a romp. Monet good things and was heavily backed both ways. Prince Hamburg was a pretty good thing for the books, and so was Gambrinus,

The Burlew-Madden-Bennington combinetion bet on Belmere at the last moment to win the Pierrepont Handicap. The price had gone up to 10 when their agents sailed into the ring and put the coin down in chunks, three ways. As a result there was an effecit was only by a scratch at that. If McGee she would have won easily. Always a good mudder and able to handle weight, this mare ran a splendid race and landed a raft of place wagers for her backers. Coy Maid, who opened the choice at 5 to 2, receded to 3, but was solidly played straight and place. Good Luck was a hot paddock tip, but he amounted to nothing. Dolly Spanker and Sugenia Burch were previous winners of the SECOND RACE.

Young men were prominent in the annual News of the World "golfing derby" at Hollin-well, the first week in October. The prizes amount to $1,250, professionals gaining the right to compete in the match play final rounds at medal play competitions in their own districts, also for cash prizes. Thirty-two competed. George Duncan, a young player from Aberdeen, now professional to the Timperley Golf Club, beat J. H. Taylor, by 1 up, and James Braid, by 3 and 2. Alex Herd, who had beaten Harry Vardon by 2 up, in the second round, defeated Duncan in the semifinal, by 6 and 5. C. H. Mayo, a youngster from Chipstead, beat Rowland Jones in the semi-final, then losing to Herd, by 8 and 7. Herd finished for the score, doing 34, 38-70. Herd won $500 and a gold medal, Mayo $150 and a silver medal, Duncan and Jones $75 each, and a bronze medal. R. Thomson, Taylor, Riseborough and Reid received $50 cach, while eight more, including Harry Vardon, won $25 apiece. There was a prize for everybody except the sixteen beaten in the first round, which contingent of unfortunates included Braid, Ben. Sayers, Tom Vardon, Toogood, Ray and Renout. General Research Control of the Contr On account of the disagreeable weather on Saturday and Sunday there was but one match to a finish in the second round of the Dyker Meadow Golf Club championship. This was between Hovenden and Thompson, both Crescent A. C. recruits to Dyker. Hovenden was on his game and won by 5 up and 4 to play.

That impetuosity that has so often won for "W.G." at cricket has followed him to the links. In a four ball foursome on Friday, October 5, on the Mid-Surrey golf links, in which Prince Albert of Schleswig-Holstein, P. J. de Paravicini, Dr. W. G. Grace and G. W. Beldam were playing, the two latter, who were partners, when approaching the sixth green played simultaneously and their balls collided in the air. This was distinctly seen by Prince Albert and one of the caddies. It was further demonstrated, as G. W. Beldam was certain he would be hole high, but on getting up to the bunker found his ball in it, W. G. Grace's being on the green.

NEAR FOOTBALL TRAGERY. Yale Senior Might Have Been Shot, but

BELMERE, AT S TO 1, WINS PIERRE-NEW HAVEN, Oct. 22 .- Burt L. Brown, a Yale senior from Gloversville, N. Y., is recovering to-day from a football scrimmage on Saturday afternoon in which he was knocked unconscious and left on the field in the soaking rain while the spectators were chasing the giant fullback of the opposing team into the nearby awamps.

While the varsity team was playing

Pennsylvania State on Yale Field, the "Sons of Belial" team, composed of Yale seniors, had a game on at Mount Carmel, five miles from here, with the Mount Carmel Giants, a team of stalwart farmer lads.

A big crowd of Yale supporters was on hand to cheer the college men. The second half of the game was nearly over when Brown, the Yale halfback, who had the ball, made a run down the field for the Mount Carmel goalpost. Just as he was about to push the ball over he was tackled by the giant fullback of the Mount Carmels. There was a report like a pistol shot and Brown dropped as if dead.

"He shot him! Don't let him get away!" was yelled from the bleachers and in an instant the crowd made for the fullback. The latter didn't stop to argue but took to his heals, making over fences for the Pennsylvania State on Yale Field, the

The latter didn't stop to argue but took to his heals, making over fences for the woods, with the mob after him. Finally he plunged into a swamp, the crowd not venturing to follow. Somebody thought of Brown lying supposedly dead on the field and a rush was made for him. He was still stretched out but convulsed with laughter. Near by was an exploded football. The crowd then yelled to the marooned fulbackthat is was safe for him to come back

IDEAL YAWL FOR THE SOUTH. Dr. R. V. Pierce's Huntress Soon to Make Her Trial Trip.

The yawl Huntress, building at Jacob's City Island yard for Dr. R. V. Pierce, is soon to have a trial. She is from designs by Henry J. Gielow, and will be used this winter cruising in Florida and Southern waters. This boat is a centreboard twin screw auxiliary ketch. The owner, Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, is a sportsman outside of his professional work and has spent his winters for the last ten years in Florida cruising, fishing and shooting. Dr. Pierce then, with his knowledge of actual conditions, was well able to make known his desires, and certainly even a cursory examination of the plans will show how well Mr Gielow solved the many problems incident to such a yacht, which is at once a houseboat, sailing vessel and a launch, and one which under all the varied conditions of service would be safe, able, fast and comfortable on a very shallow The sail plan shows a profile of pleasing ap-

The sail plan shows a profile of pleasing appearance with short ends, denoting a maximum of accommodation on a minimum length, and indeed for the work contemplated ends do not count for much. The cabin trunk is much pierced by ports, which will be of brass and insect proof, assuring good ventilation. The cabin plan shows good space and an arrangement that is suited to the owner's wishes—a point few take into account in judging of the accommodation plan of any yacht.

There will be three staterooms, besides two berths, made up in the main saloon if necessary. The engine room is separated from the rest of the ship by watertight partitions and contains two 25 horse-power Standard motors, which will drive the boat under normal conditions at a speed of nine miles per hour. The arrangement of the dining saloon is good, as it is lates sinel and noise from the sleeping quarters and makes the work of the cook easy. The accommodation for the erew includes a stateroom for the sailing master and four berths for the crew in the forecastle. Forward of the forecastle is located in a watertight compartment a 650 gallon tank for gasolene. Aft these are two ing master and four berths for the crew in the forecastle. Forward of the forecastle is located in a watertight compartment a $50 gallon tank for gasolene. Aft these are two 300 gallon tanks for fresh water, besides one of 300 gallons amidships.

An interesting feature in connection with the water supply is that fresh water in Florida is not always obtainable and special provision has been made to utilize the great rainfall. The idea of collecting rain water was in use on Whim Wham, used by Dr. Pierce for some eight years. The upper part of the cabin house, about 1,000 square feet in area, will be arranged to collect the rain water and drain it to large pipes connected with a charcoal filter and from there to the water tank. The arrangements are very complete for the stowing of all the necessaries and large lockers have been provided in which to stow guns, ammunition and fishing tackle; they will be located just inside the companionway in the passage and at all times will be readily accessible. The fee capacity is about a ton and a half. Generally, then, Huntress is a boat well adapted to many conditions of service and she should prove altogether an ideal craft for the ends expected. The dimensions follow: Length over all, 88 feet 4 inches; waterline, 77 feet 8 inches: breadth, 22 feet: follow: Length over all, 88 feet 4 inches; waterline, 77 feet 8 inches: breadth, 22 feet; draught, 2 feet 10 inches; freeboard, forward 7 feet; midship, 4 feet 1 inch; aft, 4 feet 9 inches; sail area, 4,000 square feet; engines, two (Standard motors), 25 horse-power; speed, under engines, 9 miles.

HARVARD'S STAND ON OFFICIALS. College Paper Criticises Athletic Commit-

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 23.-The Harvard Crimson in an editorial in this morning's issue berates the athletic committee for holding aloof from the intercollegiate football rules committee's sub-committee on furnishing officials. The editorial:

"Last May the overseers, because they felt that 'many of the unsatisfactory conditions attending intercollegiate football have been exaggerated by an unwillingness on the part of officials to assert their authority, requested the athletic committee to formulate. If possible, some more satisfactory plan for the election of such officials than the one requested the athletic committee to 'formulate, if possible, some more satisfactory plan for the election of such officials than the one now in vogue.

"At approximately the same time the intercollegiate football rules committee appointed from among its number a subcommittee to select a board of suitable officials for games this fall. The purpose of a centralized committee was to insure so far as possible the selection of satisfactory and expert officials who would see that the spirit as well as the letter of the new rules was enforced. The subcommittee has provisionally assigned officials to most of the larger colleges for their games this season, and has asked the colleges to allow the committee to have all arrangements as to appointments, &c., of these men in its own hands. In this way it was hoped to keep a direct control on the men appointed and to make the committee responsible for the satisfactory and efficient work of its appointees. To the request of the subcommittee Yale, Princeton, Dartmouth and most of the other colleges have acceded.

"Harvard, however, has thus far held aloof from this movement because the athletic committee has refused to transfer its power of appointing and engaging officials to the central sub-committee. This refusal is due presumably to the above mentoned request of the overseers that the athletic committee endeavor to formulate a more satisfactory system for the election of officials And the university, is therefore, placed in the peculiarly unfortunate and inconsistent position of seeming to discourage the apparently honest efforts which are being made to render effective the new rules—but for the adoption of which Harvard would not now be playing intercollegiate football. This stand of the athletic committee is of especial timely interest in view of the ineffective and careless work of the officials in the Springfield Training School game on Saturday, Failure of officials to enforce strictly all the rules was a just and a serious complaint against the old game, and it would

dition should arise during the trial of the new game.

"In view of this fact and in view of the unanimity of the other colleges in supporting the sub-committee on officials, which because of its centralized control, has a much greater opportunity to secure satisfactory umpiring than has any single college, there would seem to be no valid reason why the athletic committee should longer maintain its present attitude of opposition to the new movement. In abandoning this attitude the committee will certainly not be acting 'against the request of the overseers for the institution of a more satisfactory system of choosing officials."

Pennsylvania, in reply to a report that Wisconsin would invite Pennsylvania to row in the West, said:

"No doubt all of the members of the crew would be glad to meet the Badgers; the undergraduates would certainly be pleased with such a race, and the graduates in the West would hall the event with joy—but it cannot be.

"First, because the studies of the oarsmen would not permit it; secondly, the expense is more than we could stand, and, again, we have about all we can do in meeting Annapolis, rowing in the junior race, and at the championships.

"I am sure every Pennsylvania man thanks our Western foe for their invitation, and also regrets that Pennsylvania cannot accept the same."

IN THE FOOTBALL WORLD.

CORNELL LEADS IN NUMBER OF POINTS SCORED.

Six Eastern Elevens With M Uncalled Record on Defence-Need of Team Work by Officials-Wrenn Umpire and Hackett Referee for Yale-Princeton.

Cornell is at the top of the Eastern football heap in total points scored so far this fall. Princeton and Pennsylvania are second. each with 141 points, but Princeton makes the better showing, as her goal line has not been crossed. No touchdown has been made against the Tigers, while three have been registered by opponents of the Quakers. Harvard passed Yale in total points last week, the result of liberal scoring in the Spring-field game. Yale's defence still shows an unsulfied record, as does that of Swarth-more, Virginia, West Point, Colgace and Dartmouth. Wesleyan has the distinction of not having won a game, but succeeded in has played only two games. The total scores

Team work is needed not only by players, but by officials also this year. Take the forward pass, for instance. The referee has a pretty tough job of it in watching the ball from the moment it is put in play to note simultaneously the spot from where it was thrown, the direction it takes and whether it is caught or strikes the ground. He needs eyes in the side of his head to see all of these things at once and really needs the help of the umpire or linesman in noting accurately the spot from which the ball was flung. In such a play is where the two umpires provided for by the rules would come in handy. Officials are having their trials in mastering the details of their work and some of them have not mastered them. In a certain school game the other day a punt was blocked near the punting side's goal line, and one of the latter team fell on the ball for a safety. The referee ruled that a touchback had been made. Play was resumed, and about 15 minutes later the captain of the team which blocked the punt awoke to the fact that it was a safety, not a touchback. He put in a claim of two points, and the referee reversed his decision and allowed the safety. It was a safety without doubt, but the right of a referee to reverse a decision after play had gone on was questioned. The point was whether the play had not been outlawed, whether the right to make a claim did not cease to exist the moment another play had been made.

The Central Board of Officials named two well known officials but neither of them was acceptable to Harvard. Let Hackett, U.S. A., will be the man. Hackett learned the game at West Point, where he was a star halfback, quarterback and has ball player, and since leaving the Point he has kept in close touch with the sport. Hackett officiated at the Chicago-Purdue game, and here is what he had to say:

"The new rule game, and here is what he had to say:

"The new rule game agrand success. What new plays were used were effective and thrillers, too. While later games will bring out much more in resard to the new game, enough of it came at to prove that it is a corker. The forward passes were successful most of the time, which is remarkable for this stage of the season. The game was one of the fastest at which I have ever officiated only an hour and three-quarters long."

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—Andy Smith's freshman football team of Pennsylvania is to be the fast attraction on November 3 on Franklin item for the first war men from Cornell. inch a well oiled machine as the Carlisle Indian team is to be defeated on Saturday.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 22.—The Tigers seem as anxious and determined to win next Saturday's game in New York as Cornell is. The sterling abilities of the Ithacans are not in the least questioned, especially after their walkover with Bowdoin. So this afternoon every man on the Princeton squad except Capt. Dillon was out for work, and plenty they got, too. All the varsity men are in tiptop condition after the game with Bucknell. To-day brought forth pleasing results, for the scrub put up a stiff defence and played better than ever before. Coxe, Stoever and Pfeifer constituted the back field for the second eleven and it was their presence, no doubt, that put life into the bunch. The first string lined up against the scrub in a game of two twenty minute halves. In this time the varsity scored two touchdowns, while the scrub succeeded in crossing their opponents line once. Cooney kicked off to Dowd, the scrub quarterback, who ran back a few yards. The conches gave the ball to the varsity and told Harlan to punt. Dowd received the kick and started down the field like a shot. He covered about seventy yards, when he was tripped and went sprawling. Coxe, Stoever and Pfeifer plugged the line hard and finally Pfeifer went over for a touchdown.

It is some time since faster, cleaner football

Saturday very much, but nevertheless it is true. To-day the coaches tried to patch up the weakness and by the end of the week the whole eleven is likely to be working like one big machine.

Harlan did the kicking to-day. Steady improvement is noticeable in this department, for the little halfback pokes his foot under the leather with increasing skill. His punts twirl high and long with a rapid upward movement. There ought to be a pretty drop kicking duel between him and Cornell's star. Bill Church was on the coaching staff to-day. He paid special attention to the varsity defence.

to-day. He paid special attention to the varsity defence.

New Haven, Oct. 22—The Yale squad showed no ill effects of the hard game Saturday with Pennsylvania State, and even Forbes and Morse played the entire scrimmage this afternoon. Tad Jones was also in the lineup at quarterback and apparently was able to go any distance. The freshmen were the opponents of the varsity, and the kids put up a fine contest in the fifteen minutes work. They received the ball in midfield and carried it almost to the varsity line before losing it. Then Berger, playing in Knox's place at left halfback, skirted the freshmen's end and went more than the length of the field for a score. He received the ball back of the varsity line, making his total run about 115 yards.

Forbes for a time to-day was shifted from left tackle to left end, replacing Howard Jones. He played a whirlwind game at that spot and may become a fixture there. Veeder was taken from the back field for a while and put in at quarterback. The coaches did this because he is heavier than Dines, the present sub, and because Veeder is a better kicker and a stronger man on defence. The only extra coach out to-day was Kinney, the former tackle and guard. He took charge of the centre men.

WEST POINT, Oct. 22.—With several of the charge of the centre men.

WEST POINT, Oct. 22.— With several of the men still feeling the effects of Saturday's game Head Coach Graves allowed no scrimmage to-day. A long signal practice was held, the men walking through some new plays that will be perfected for the Harvard game. After the many rearrangements of the three men on the left side of the line it looks as if finally settled. Weeks started the season as left guard, then shifting to end in the Trinity and Colgate games, and last Saturday taking Erwin's place at left tackle, Erwin going in at guard in Jenkins's place and Moose playing end. Pullen, right tackle, was not out to-day, but R. H. Smith got in the signal practice.

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 22.-Harvard's football

Cambridge, Oct. 22.—Harvard's football practice this afternoon was the least strenuous that it has been this season. There was no scrimmage even for the subs. The coaches managed to accomplish things, however, for they gave the varsity some new open plays which will probably be used against the soldiers at West Point on Saturday. Last year Harvard went down to the fortress on the Hudson with just four players and an attack that was almost criminally weak, but this year the coaches are giving the team some ammunition with which to batter the army line. Another new feature was the use of the goal from placement behind the line of scrimmage. Dartmouth has used this play for years, and her coaches have carried it everywhere they have directed teams, but Harvard has never tried it before. With a kicker like Burr it is being added to the string, for when perfected it is a good scoring play. Frank Hallowell, one of the family that has given Harvard three well known ends, was out coaching the ends in going down the field under kicks to-day. Burnham, after a week of easy work because of an injured shoulder, did the regular work with the end squad to-day. Waido Pierce, who was started at right tackle on Saturday, was not out to-day on account of an injury of an injured shoulder, did the regular work with the end squad to-day. Waldo Pierce, who was started at right tackle on Saturday, was not out to-day on account of an injury to his wrist received in the Springfield training school game. It is not serious, but will keep him out of the practice for a few days. Coach Reid's announcement in the Harvard union last Friday night that this was his last year with the eleven has caused a lot of talk among the undergraduates, most of whom believed that Reid had come to remain as the permanent head of Harvard's football. When Reid took charge of the team last year he came under a two years contract. He would not discuss the matter to-day, but it is generally believed that he will not be allowed to make his final decision about leaving until after the close of this season. In his talk last Friday Reid said that the reduction of the number of injuries was not due to the new game. He said that the coaches had learned certain things regarding the causes of injuries through mistakes made last year, and they were not making these same mistakes this year. There would have been just as few injuries under the old game," said Reid.

ITHACA, Oct. 22.—There was no let up in the ITERACA, Oct. 22.—There was no let up in the hard work for the Cornell football squad this afternoon, the varsity going through a severe routine of individual practice and a long scrimmage against the freshmen. Sweetland, Kent. Lueder and Warner took the linemen in hand and corrected many faults which cropped out in the Bowdoin game on Saturday. Joe Beacham and Bobby Young looked after the ends and backs. The men showed up in fine form during the preliminary workout and signal drills, but went to pieces completely when they tried to sweep the freshmen off the map. The youngsters refused to be swept and more than held their own with the big fellows. Coach Warner said after the practice, which was held behind closed gates, that the work was absolutely the worst he has seen on Percy Field this year. When asked if he wasn't talking for effect, he replied: "No, I mean examely what I say. It was what you might call a blue Monday."

Student sentiment has taken a big brace since the 72 to a finiar of Saturday, and over 1,400 have purchased tickets for the game with Princeton.

with Princeton.

AMHERST, Mass., Oct. 22.—Amherst defeated the University of Vermont here to-day by a score of 6—0. The Vermonters fought hard to wipe out their defeat of last season, but the ball was kept chiefly in their territory. Penalties were searce, there being none during the first half and only three in the second, two for holding and one for hurdling. Amherst carried the ball four times within Vermont's yard line, but succeeded in making only one touchdown. This occurred in the first half, when Vermont was forced to kick on their 4 yard line. The ball was blocked and McCoy fell on it behind the line. The forward pass was worked for gains by both teams. Amherst substituted five men in the second half.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 22.—Realizing that the defensive work of the midshipmen is far head of the offence, the coaches paid particular attention to developing the latter this afternoon. The ball was given to the first team and after they had carried it some distance the teams were reversed, the regulars still holding the ball. In this way there was no scoring. Capt. Spencer, who had his knee twisted in the game with Lehigh on Saturday, will probably be out of the playing for two weeks, and Northcroft, fullback, is still kept out of the scrimmages.

New Haven, Oct. 22.—Everet J. Thompson, Yale's new football ticket manager, announced to-night that application blanks for the Yale-Princeton game at Princeton on November 17 would be given out to-morrow. Applications for seats for this game will close at noon on Saturday, November 2. Blanks for the alumni have been sent out to the Yale clubs all over the country and other convenientplaces in the larger cities. sent out of the land convenient places in the larger cities.

The application blanks for the Harvard game will be issued within ten days. The mechod of allet nent which was carried out last fall will be rollowed this year by Manager Thompson. The committee on distribution, composed of three graduates and four undergraduates, consists of H. S. Knox, '07, chairman: J. W. Curtiss, '79: Walter Camp, '80: I. S. Welch, '89: M. S. Little, '07 C. Kinney, Jr., '07, and J. T. Foster, '08.

Carlisle, Pa., Oct. 22.—The Carlisle Indians football team returned yesterday from the Western University of Pennsylvania game, at Pittsburg, in good physical condition. Coach Pierce and Capt. Exending stated that their players were not taxed to win their victory last Saturday. The Indians were by no means confident, however, when they struck the Smoky City. The practice to-day was confined to the time.

between 3:30 and 5 o'clock, all the Indianofficials agreeing that morning practice should be temporarily eliminated. Signals were run through and the men were limbered up thoroughly. The Redskins approach the big Pennazirania-Indian game on Saturday at Philadelphia with a confidence born of their wonderfully successful experience in handling the forward pass and quarterback kicks last week. At the same time the Indians are not going into the game with overconfidence, but they hope to win from Pennsylvania and thus wipe out many old scores.

EASTERN LEAGUE AFFAIRS. Five Cubs Said to Be in Line to Elect

Preliminary to the annual meeting of the Eastern League to-day, the board of directors of that baseball organization met at the Victoria Hotel yesterday. The board consists of C. T. Chapin, Rochester; Hugh Jennings, Baltimore; Howard Griffiths, Jersey City; Walter Burnham, Newark, and President Taylor, ex officio. There were no protests for the board to consider and little else to do but meet, and the session lasted only a short time.

for the board to consider and little ease to do but meet, and the session lasted only a short time.

The chief interest in the Eastern's meeting concerns the presidency, and at the election of officers to-day either P. T. Powers, who resigned the presidency a year ago and became owner of the Providence club, or Harry Taylor of Buffalo, the present incumbent, will be chosen chief executive. Considerable opposition has developed to Taylor and yet those who are with him are with him strongly. "He gave a good administration," said one of his supporters yesterday, "and every club in the league made money except one. So far as his business is concerned, I think Taylor would rather give all his time to his law practice, but he wants to be reelected for the sake of vindication."

"I have been approached to take the presidency again," said Powers, "and I will know to-morrow whether I am out for the place. I have not sought it."

One who is in close touch with Eastern League affairs says Powers will be elected, as he will get the five necessary votes—Jersey City, Toronto, Montreal, Providence and Rochester.

Hughey Jennings said he had lines out for a first class major league first basemas for the Detroit team, which he is to manage next season.
